10 MORE Simple Lessons for Better Behavior

Workshop #050517

May 5, 2017

Looking for some good staff development to attend this summer?

Juan Pablo is back...and this time he has a friend.

As discipline concerns continue to mount in the classroom, teachers are in need of simple ways to teach and reinforce social skills. This workshop was designed to meet this need. Built on the original session Songs and Lessons for Better Behavior, this workshop outlines easy lessons for teaching behavioral skills. The lessons feature Juan Pablo, the Chameleon and a new friend. These lessons were written specifically from teacher requests. Although the information in this workshop complements the original session, participants need not have attended that workshop in order to benefit from this one. This information is very appropriate for complementing behavioral RTI efforts at the primary level.

Registered participants will receive Dan's new resource: 10 More Simple Lessons for Better Behavior in the Classroom, coupled with another small Juan Pablo product currently in production. These resources are most applicable pre-kindergarten through second grade.

The lessons covered in this workshop have specific key phrases and pictures designed to prompt and teach appropriate behaviors. These phrases and pictures can be used successfully by individual teachers who choose to attend; however, it is exponentially powerful when an entire grade level of teachers implement the strategies. Counselors and administrators will also find the information and resources very useful. When three or more individuals register from the same school, there is a 5.00 per person discount.

Electronic registration for this workshop can be completed online at www.danstromain.com. For more information, contact Lee Anne Everett at laeverett1954@gmail.com or 210.826.3345.

I'm so excited about this workshop. I just can't contain myself!
